

It Would Be Rude

by Louie Hesemann

Our stay here on Earth has been so “precious” that it would be rude...to “checkout” without showing our gratitude.

By taking the steps necessary to get rid of our clutter accumulated during happy times or times of strife...while living this long and abundant life.

Even mining companies have a moral obligation to do their part for Earth’s re-beautification.

On the day we were born, we were “naked as a jay”. Wouldn’t it be wonderful when our time has come to an end here we could say, “Hey Lord, look at me, heaven bound and clutter free!”
